ASSOCIATION FAVORS SUFFRAGE IN DISTRICT

Residents of Columbia Heights Also Ask for Representation in Congress.

Resolution Adopted Leaves the Issue of "Votes for Women" to Future Consideration.

Suffrage for the District was discussed at a meeting of the Columbia Heights Citizens Association, in the parish hall of St. Stephen's Church, last night, with the result that the association took action recommending the amendment of the Constitution so as to give the people of the District of Columbia representation in the Senate, the House of Representatives and in the electoral college. This decision was not reached, however, until practically all the members present had expressed their views on the subject and a substitute amendment had been offered. The question came up through a motion proposed by A. B. Cartwright, asking that the association advocate District suffrage, and that the vote be extended to the women of the District.

Views of Judge Bundy.

Judge Bundy declared himself heartily in favor of the resolution providing for District suffrage and representation, but said:

"The District ought to be represented in both houses of Congress and in the electoral college. These things are the right of citizenship. I am in the District, I feel sure. But when coupled with the vexatious question of District suffrage, it is impossible to pass."

The substitute, with no mention of woman suffrage in it, was then offered by J. Clinton Hiatt, and, following discussion, was adopted. The motion, declared that the effect of giving the District the right to vote would be to abolish woman suffrage in the District. He declared the motion of Mr. Hiatt in harmony with the position taken in the chamber of commerce and in the report of the committee of ten of the chamber of commerce and in the report of the committee of ten of the chamber of commerce.

Fears Revival of Former Troubles.

At this juncture Dr. W. W. Foster expressed fear that with the coming of the vote to the District would perhaps come a revival of the old riots that used to be quelled by troops. P. V. Keating, however.

"We must take care of itself," he said, "and words must be met with a spontaneous outburst of applause. Others who spoke on the question included W. W. Todd, Dr. L. F. Keblert, William R. Carr and President William H. Saunders.

"We will get woman suffrage as soon as we get representation," asserted Dr. Keblert.

Mr. Hiatt declared that under present conditions a man cannot live in the District and really become identified with it.

"All we can do is to resolve," he said, "complain to the postmaster and get our mail; complain to the collector and get an unofficial answer or not, just as it pleases them."

The resolution, as amended, would in no way interfere with the half-and-half principle, it was brought out, or with the present system of government.

President Saunders appointed the following committee to co-operate with other committees in their effort to bring about such an amendment to the Constitution: J. Clinton Hiatt, William B. Todd, W. W. Carr, Dr. L. F. Keblert, and Dr. Benjamin F. Gibbs.

Demand Attention to 16th Street.

A resolution asking that the Commissioners order 16th street more thoroughly and often be passed. One citizen described the erstwhile Avenue of the Presidents as "one long cloud of perpetual dust." The resolution was introduced by W. W. Bowie.

On motion of A. B. Cartwright an automobile engine will be asked for engine house No. 11. The citizens expressed their interest in the new school for the new addition to the Powell School. New members admitted included A. C. Lampe and L. V. Lamson.

REJECTS NAVAL OFFICER'S BILL FOR HOUSE RENT

Controller Refuses to Allow Commutation for Quarters Vacated During Repairs.

A claim of $222 for commutation has been disallowed. Prof. Paul J. Dashiell, professor of mathematics at the United States Naval Academy, by George E. Downey, controller of the Treasury.

Prof. Dashiell vacated his quarters in the officers' mess at Annapolis from June 10 to September 30, pending repairs to the mess building, upon the advice of the instructor there.

"All the facts in this case indicate that the available quarters are that all parties to the transaction knew they were available," comments Controller Downey.

It was known to the claimant as well as the paying office, Controller Downey indicates, that no payment is authorized in law when quarters are available for occupancy. The practice of ordering quarters vacated during repairs, which Controller Downey assails, he regards as a practice illegal in the purpose of legalizing an "in fact" illegal payment, and one that cannot be equitably invoked for protection, and in this case one is authorized to pay for the quarters.

The repairs were comparatively minor, and he further points out, occupying twenty days of work to complete the renovation of the entire building. Part of this, too, he shows, was outside work, and he says that the time was employed in cleaning and laying carpet.

The total cost of repairs, $91.24, he compared with the possibility of extensive claims for commutation from those quarters in the building.

Graphic Reproductions of Devastation Wrought in Europe Given in Star's Pictorial.

Germans Photographed as They Reckon Death Toll—Great Military Leaders Pictured.

Actual battle scenes, devastation among refugees, massacres in camp, flight of interned sailors, graphic reproductions of scenes of destruction, portraits of martial leaders, all of these are shown in the midweek war pictorial extra of The Star, which is on sale today.

This regular weekly feature of The Star has come to look forward to by those in Washington interested in war news, and they supplement their reading of the cabled news each day with these vivid pictures of the most important and human-interest features of this greatest conflict in the history of the world.

The cover design shows "War's Death Toll." German soldiers are seen reckoning up the death toll after one of the battles in the Yser region. Each soldier wears an identification disc which is carefully preserved and returned to the war office in Berlin.

Waiting for the Enemy.

There is a full-page view of artillery waiting for the enemy "somewhere" in Flanders. The English heavy artillery is in position for immediate action when the alarm is given. The gunners are taking things easy and are spending their time in sleeping or reading during the lull in hostilities. Shells are seen soaring into the air.

A British aeroplane brought down by German guns is a pitiful sight. This aerial scout was making observations of the German position "somewhere" in Belgium. It was brought down by several well-directed shots, but managed to glide to earth within its own lines.

A scouting party of Austrian cavalry foraging in a river valley is an interesting picture. This was taken in Galicia, where the stream had temporarily checked their operations. They are seen crossing in a large flat-bottom boat, with the horses swimming alongside.

There is a fine action picture of Gen. Joffre, whom the French people have idolized for his brilliant stand against the Germans in their "drive" to Paris. He was caught as he was conversing with Gen. Castelnau in front of the Freneuil station in the Ardennes.

The general-in-chief is the best mathematician in the service and is popularly known as "the brains of the French army."

Shows German Field Marshal.

There is also a good action picture of Field Marshal Baron von der Goltz, the German general, photographed in Constantinople, where he has been advising the Turks in their campaign against Russia. The baron is seventy-one years old, and is a veteran of the Franco-Prussian war and the Austrian campaign in 1866.

These are but a few of the many interesting and instructive pictures in this illustrated magazine issued by The Star, printed by the new rotogravure process, which gives it detail and reproduction. There are many more pictures, all of which have a direct bearing on the war that is to decide the fate of nations and will redraw the map of Europe.

The Washington public is fortunate to get such reliable illustrations of current history. These war extras are being sold by all newsboys and at all the newsstands throughout the city, as well as at The Evening Star office.

Employment Posters Set Out.

Advertising posters outlining the purposes and advantages of the newly established governmental employment bureau, as well as a number of forms to be used in gathering the information needed to bring the jobless man to the manless job, are being sent to postmasters and employers throughout the country.

It is expected that requests for jobs and for employees will pour into the headquarters here as well as the various field offices as soon as the forms are well circulated.

Martin Wade for U. S. Judge.

Martin Wade, democratic national committeeman from Iowa, probably will be appointed by President Wilson to succeed United States Judge Smith McPherson, who died recently, it was understood in official circles. Attorney General Gregory, a White House caller yesterday, said he hoped to dispose of the appointment in the near future.

Bronchial Coughs

When the bronchial tubes are affected with that weakening tickling cough, they need immediate and sensible treatment. The breath seems shorter because of mucous obstructions; usually fever is present and your head aches with every cough. Your chest aches and the inflammation often spreads to the lungs.

The food-tonic that has proven its worth for forty years—Scott's Emulsion. It drives out the cold, checks the cough, and restores the healthy process of the enfeebled membranes.

If you are troubled with bronchitis or know an afflicted friend, always remember that Scott's Emulsion builds strength while relieving the trouble.

DUTY RATE OF JEWELRY RESET WHILE ABROAD

Customs Division Gives Ruling on Gems Taken to Other Countries and Repaired There.

The custom division of the Treasury Department has recently set forth the rule of procedure in regard to the payment of duty on jewelry taken abroad and there reset and repaired. The wording of the rule, which is calculated to be of interest to those contemplating future European trips, is as follows:

"When a ring, pin, bracelet, brooch or other article of jewelry is taken abroad and the stone or other setting is replaced in the same kind of article as that sent abroad, the identity of the exported article is not destroyed. In such case the article is entitled to admission upon the payment of duty on the value of the repairs only, provided that the value of said repairs be less than 50 per cent of the total value of the returned article. If, however, the value of these repairs equals or exceeds 50 per cent, the article should be assessed with duty upon its entire value in the condition as imported."

A case in issue has been ruled upon by the customs division. A diamond pin reset abroad, and even the setting changed for a new stone, inasmuch as it is still a diamond pin, is permitted to come in on payment of duty based on the cost of repairs. Another recent decision, however, made assessment upon the full value of a diamond brooch taken abroad and brought back in the near future for service on the battlefield.

It was decided that this particular piece had lost its identity as the article taken abroad.

Seeks Duty on Railways.

In an effort to get at the basis of the methods used by the railroads of the country in figuring out the depreciation of the property and equipment, the interstate commerce commission has sent out circulars seeking data. The circular contains a number of questions designed to develop the desired information, and also calls for an itemized account of all the equipment, with the statement of the depreciation during a given period.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Association for Woman Suffrage, yesterday afternoon spoke before a meeting of committees of both branches of the North Carolina general assembly in behalf of a woman suffrage bill now being considered by the assembly.

Troops to Leave Mines Soon.

Federal troops sent to enforce the orders of the federal court in the Hartford valley, Arkansas, coal region, after trouble in a mine strike, will be withdrawn in the near future. Attorney General Gregory has reported to President Wilson that conditions are rapidly improving and he had reports from his agents that the miners probably would work the mines under a co-operative arrangement.

Mrs. Sophie Chee, known to the police as "The Opium Queen," has been sentenced in New York to pay a fine of $2,000 and to serve six months in the penitentiary for smuggling opium into the United States.

Our Country's Menace

Some are wondering if our lawmakers are not coming to be as great a menace to our country as an invading army would be.

These lawmakers grind out laws on top of laws affecting things which they do not understand, and which in most cases they do not seem to care to understand. Laws are passed in rapid succession in Washington and elsewhere that take away the liberties of the people, that cripple our industries, that put a frightful burden on the taxpayers, and which in many cases amount practically to a confiscation of property.

Well might the people anxiously ask what can be done to save our country from the epidemic of legislative idiocy that is sweeping over the land.
